

Chris Camerieri, Vice President & General Counsel

Chris Camerieri has more than sixteen years of diverse in-house experience with technology companies. His experience includes software licensing, intellectual property, and negotiating complex business agreements and contracts including customer purchase agreements, vendor contracts, professional service agreements, outsourcing contracts and technology licensing agreements.

Mr. Camerieri was the General Counsel with Inovis USA prior to joining NDN. During his tenure, he provided legal services for this international company including extensive support for the sales, finance, operations, human resources and procurement functions. He participated in merger due diligence and helped drive and manage the post-merger integration efforts after Inovis merged with GXS. Previously, Mr. Camerieri was the Vice President and General Counsel with Aderant Holdings where he served as the sole legal counsel and negotiated multi-million dollar software license and professional services contracts with Fortune 500 customers. Furthermore, he managed corporate governance and served as corporate secretary for the holding company and multiple subsidiaries.

Mr. Camerieri began his career while still in law school as a Legal Assistant with eShare Technologies. He remained with eShare after receiving his law degree, and held several positions in the legal department eventually earning promotions to the second-in-command role as Counsel in the legal department.

Mr. Camerieri attended the University of Georgia where he earned a Bachelor of Business Administration degree in Accounting, and a Juris Doctor. Mr. Camerieri is a member of the Georgia Bar.